Race to the rescue with kid-favorite trains in this shaped board book! Choo-choo! It's time to gear up! Fans of Netflix's Mighty Express will enjoy this sturdy, shaped board book starring their favorite team of trains and their kid best-buddies. From the bestselling, Pulitzer Prize-winning author of The Road—a startling encounter on a New York subway platform leads two strangers to a run-down tenement where a life or death decision must be made. In that small apartment, “Black” and “White,” as the two men are known, begin a conversation that leads each back through his own history, mining the origins of two fundamentally opposing world views. White is a professor whose seemingly enviable existence of relative ease has left him nonetheless in despair. Black, an ex-con and ex-addict, is the more hopeful of the men—though he is just as desperate to convince White of the power of faith as White is desperate to deny it. Their aim is no less than this: to discover the meaning of life. Deft, spare, and full of artful tension, The Sunset Limited is a beautifully crafted, consistently thought-provoking, and deceptively intimate work by one of the most insightful writers of our time. In simple, powerful words and vibrant illustrations, Donald Crews evokes the rolling wheels of that childhood favorite: a train. This Caldecott Honor Book features bright colors and bold shapes. Even a child not lucky enough to have counted freight cars will feel he or she has watched a freight train passing after reading Freight Train. Donald Crews used childhood memories of trains seen during his travels to his grandparents' farm in the American South as the inspiration for this timeless favorite. New York magazine's The Strategist chose Freight Train as one of the “Best (Nonobvious) Baby Books to Bring to a Shower.” As The Strategist stated: “The Caldecott Honor Book is spare and minimal in both art and text and follows the journey of a freight train and all its cars until it rolls off the page and into the distance. It’s a good way to learn all the different names of train cars, too.” Red caboose at the back, orange tank car, green cattle car, purple box car, black tender and a black steam engine . . . freight train. Thirty drawings depict such famous trains as Europe's Orient Express, the observation lounge on the Burlington Zephyr, and a sleeping compartment on New York Central's 20th Century Limited. Immerse yourself in railroad history all the livelong day! An icon of the Industrial Revolution, railroads were essential to the progress of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. Today’s trains travel at speeds up to 268 miles per hour, and the limits continue to be pushed. Trains: A Complete History provides an excellent overview of the train models that were groundbreaking in their respective eras. The scope of progress comes to life on these pages—from the 1830 Best Friend of Charleston, whose passengers were to said to have traveled “on the wings of the wind” at a whopping top speed of twenty-five miles per hour, to the 2012 hybrid-powered Japan Railway HD300, which uses 36 percent less fuel than traditional trains and travels at speeds up to seventy miles per hour. Complete with a detachable collection of press-out model train pieces, Trains: A Complete History is the two-in-one book that will have train enthusiasts young and old tooting their horns and hollering, “All aboard!” All aboard for Dreamland! Hold on to your pillow because the Goodnight Train is taking off. Roll that corner, rock that curve, and soar past mermaids, leaping sheep, and even ice-cream clouds. You won't want to miss a thing, so whatever you do, don't . . . close . . . your . . . eyes! With soothing, lyrical words and magical illustrations, June Sobel and Laura Huliska-Beith have created a nighttime fantasy that's guaranteed to make even the most resistant sleeper snuggle up tight. Ready to keep rolling? The companion books Goodnight Train Rolls On and Santa and the Goodnight Train are now available! The story of a young Chinese girl who arrives in North America only to discover that her father has died building the railway. This powerful, unforgettable and multi-award-winning tale is based on the lives of the Chinese who settled on the west coast of North America in the early 1900s. Left behind in China by her father, who has gone to North America to find work, Choon-yi has made her living by selling her paintings in the market. When her father writes one day and asks her to join him, she joyously sets off, only to discover that he has been killed. Choon-yi sees the railway and the giant train engines that her father died for, and she is filled with an urge to paint them. But her work disappoints her until a ghostly presence beckons her to board a train where she meets the ghosts of the men who died building the railway. She is able to give them peace by returning their bones to China where they were born. Ghostly, magical and yet redeeming, this tale by Paul Yee is superbly illustrated by Harvey Chan. Then, the sudden blast of a steam whistle echoed across the canyons and the valleys—the iron horse had arrived in the Santa Cruz Mountains. Driven by the need to transport materials like lumber and lime to the rest of the world, the railroad brought people seeking out new ways of living, from the remote outposts along Bean and Zayante Creeks to the bustling towns of Los Gatos and Santa Cruz. Bridges and tunnels marked the landscape, and each new station, siding and spur signaled activity: businesses, settlements, and vacation spots. Summer resorts in the mountains evolved into sprawling residential communities which formed the backbone of the towns of the San Lorenzo Valley today. Much of the history of the locations along the route has since been forgotten. This is their story. Robert Grainer is a day laborer in the American West at the start of the twentieth century—an ordinary man in extraordinary times. Buffeted by the loss of his family, Grainer struggles to make sense of this strange new world. As his story unfolds, we witness both his shocking personal defeats and the radical changes that transform America in his lifetime. Suffused with the history and landscapes of the American West—its otherworldly flora and fauna, its rugged loggers and bridge builders—the new novella by the National Book Award-winning author of Tree of Smoke captures the disappearance of a distinctly American way of life. La estremecedora novela de Ruperto Long surge de una investigación profunda sobre una época en la que confluyeron xenofobias, persecuciones, guerras y migraciones. Charlotte, una niña belga de ocho años, abandona Lieja -ocupada por los nazis- dejando atrás su casa y su infancia feliz, y vive increíbles peripecias, ocultándose en escondites de pueblos y ciudades. Su tío Alter, obligado a desempeñar funciones en uno de los guetos donde Hitler ordena confinar a los judíos -incluidos los padres del propio muchacho-, se encuentra atrapado en una disyuntiva ética extrema. Dimitri Amilakvari, militar francés de origen georgiano, desembarca en el norte de África al frente de la mítica Legión Extranjera. Domingo López Delgado, un soldado uruguayo, se enrola como voluntario en las fuerzas de la Francia Libre y es destinado a la Legión Extranjera en Bir Hakeim, África del Norte, donde será testigo de la grandeza humana de su superior Amilakvari. La estremecedora novela de Ruperto Long surge de una investigación profunda sobre una época en la que confluyeron xenofobias, persecuciones, guerras y migraciones. Sin embargo, más allá de esos hechos siniestros que la humanidad arrastra hasta nuestros días, el narrador rescata historias de amor impregnadas de una empeñada defensa de la vida, de la libertad, del prójimo, de la tierra natal: múltiples relatos de afectos que triunfan y perduran más allá de la barbarie. ENGLISH DESCRIPTION Ruperto Long's heart-rending novel arises from a deep investigation into a time period that saw the convergence of xenophobia, persecution, wars, and migrations. Charlotte, an eight-year-old Belgian girl, leaves Nazi-occupied Liège, leaving behind her home and her happy childhood, and lives through incredible events, hiding herself in towns and cities. Her uncle Alter, obliged to carry out functions in one of the ghettos where Hitler has ordered the Jews to be confined—including his own parents—finds himself trapped in an extreme ethical quandary. Dimitri Amilakvari, a French soldier of Georgian origin, disembarks in the north of Africa in the front line of the mythical Foreign Legion. Domingo López Delgado, a Uruguayan soldier, enlists as a volunteer in the Free French Forces and is sent to the Foreign Legion in Bir Hakeim, North Africa, where he is witness to the human grandeur of his superior, Amilakvari. This book describes the new generation of discrete choice methods, focusing on the many advances that are made possible by simulation. Researchers use these statistical methods to examine the choices that consumers, households, firms, and other agents make. Each of the major models is covered: logit, generalized extreme value, or GEV (including nested and cross-nested logits), probit, and mixed logit, plus a variety of specifications that build on these basics. Simulation-assisted estimation procedures are investigated and compared, including maximum stimulated likelihood, method of simulated moments, and method of simulated scores. Procedures for drawing from densities are described, including variance reduction techniques such as anithetics and Halton draws. Recent advances in Bayesian procedures are explored, including the use of the Metropolis-Hastings algorithm and its variant Gibbs sampling. The second edition adds chapters on endogeneity and expectation-maximization (EM) algorithms. No other book incorporates all these fields, which have arisen in the past 25 years. The procedures are applicable in many fields, including energy, transportation, environmental studies, health, labor, and marketing. Tante Truus, as she is known, is determined to save as many children as she can. After Britain passes a measure to take in at-risk child refugees from the German Reich, she dares to approach Adolf Eichmann, the man who would later help devise the "Final Solution to the Jewish Question," in a race against time to bring children like Stephan, his young brother Walter, and Žofie-Helene on a perilous journey to an uncertain future abroad. 20 full-color kindergarten cut and paste activity sheets designed to develop visuo-perceptive skills in preschool children.
